

Photographs of Children

There are several instances where we would like to take photographs of your children. Children get a real thrill out of seeing these images published as they take part in school events or celebrate success. Below are outlines of the different purposes for photographing your child.

Facebook:

The school has a Facebook page where photos of school events are published. This page often has over 2,500 views per week and is a great way to link in family members from around the country or even the world to what is going on at Fairfield School. There are also several classrooms that have their own closed (invite only) Facebook pages to communicate with parents. Photos that are uploaded celebrate events, successes and achievements, and only a child's first name is published.

School website:

Our school website will soon be the hub of all information on Fairfield School. We want to keep the site relevant and up to date which will mean photos will be frequently changed. These images will sometimes be of children involved in day-to-day activities around the school.

Promotional material or publicity:

The school is involved in a variety of activities that often gains attention from local newspapers. We also produce our own promotional material for enrolment packs or information brochures that may include photos of Fairfield children.

Assessment:

A variety of methods can be used to assess student achievement. On occasion this may include photographs of children in their learning. Teachers use these images for assessment or moderation purposes.
